Champagne Lucien Collard

Bouzy

Champagne Grand Cru Brut Nature
Zéro Dosage

Grower

The Collard family settled in Bouzy in 1919 through the marriage of Lucien Collard and Julia Bara, whose family had been winegrowers in this Grand Cru village since 1833. Today the Champagnes are made by Auriane, Lucien Collard's god-daughter, who spent a year at Jacquesson before joining the family estate.

Vineyards

The 2 hectares of vines are split between Bouzy Grand Cru on the Montagne de Reims and Loches-sur-Ource in the Côte des Bar. Strict quality standards ensure maximum respect for the terroir, and the vines are treated with organic products, with supplements borrowed from biodynamic farming.

Vinification

Auriane limits the use of sulphur and gives the wines extended ageing to maintain top quality throughout. The Brut Nature spends three years in bottle and is bottled with no dosage and limited sulphur.

Style

The pure expression of its terroir: without dosage the wine shows delicacy, balance and a taut, dry finish. Ideal as an aperitif and with oysters, sushi and simply prepared shellfish.
